Commercial Driving Enrollment Contract

1. Upon acceptance & confirmation of training by the KPDI, this document constitutes a binding contract and both KPDI and I will abide with its terms.
2. Completion and approval of the Department of Transportation Physical and Drug Screen is a condition to acceptance of the student by the School.
3. Rules, regulations, and policies of KPDI regarding attendance and conduct during training are available upon request. Failure to abide with the foregoing policies constitutes a breach of this contract and may mean dismissal.
4. Some alternations to training time may be made to accommodate night time driving or weather.
5. All correspondence, inquiries, payments and other matters relating to this contract made by the student shall be directed to the KPDI, 14896 Kenai Spur Hwy, Suite 106A, Kenai, Alaska 99611.
6. The school reserves the right to reschedule training class dates in its sole discretion or based on weather.
7. Student may reschedule training one time with more than 14 business days' written notice.
8. All training courses must be completed within 6 months of payment. Any tuition paid will be forfeited after 6 months.
9. In order to stay current with employer's needs, the curriculum, its content, sequence of instruction and type of equipment are subject to change without notice.
10. The student is responsible for the payment of tuition and fees as specified in the enrollment agreement regardless of the sources of financial aid for which the student may be eligible.
11. All students must have a State of Alaska DMV issued permit prior to completing any behind the wheel training. KPDI is not responsible for permitting or licensing errors made by the State of Alaska DMV or it's employees. If any such errors occur, KPDI will not refund any completed trainings or completed road exam fees.
12. The programs costs in this contract are based on the tuition rate presently in effect and are subject to change in the event of a tuition increase. All changes must be made a matter of record with the Alaska Commission on Postsecondary Education. Any changes in tuition or fess shall not become effective for a student currently enrolled unless such student receives notice of the change at least 60 days prior.
132. The student understands that absence from a regularly scheduled class does not relieve him or her of tuition liability.
14. Students are admitted and trained without regard to race, color, sex, age or national origin.
15. Questions regarding the school satisfying the terms of the enrollment agreement may be addressed to KPDI's owner. KPDI is authorized by the Alaska Commission on Postsecondary Education. Questions or concerns that are not satisfactorily resolved by the person designated above or by other school officials may be brought to the attention of the Alaska Commission on Post-Secondary Education, PO Box 110505, Juneau, AK 99811-0505.

MENINGITISKnow Your Risk & Learn About Vaccination*Important Notice:

Information in this handout has been gathered from the Alaska Postsecondary Student Immunization Act (HB185), signed into law effective May 18, 2005. Additional information was gathered from the Alaska Department of Health and Social Services' Division of Public Health and the website of the American College Health Association at www.acha.org/Topics/meningitis.cfm. The Alaska Commission on Postsecondary Education (ACPE) cannot provide medical information and is not responsible for any medical information provided to schools or to students. For questions specific to meningitis, immunizations, and related diseases, please consult a qualified medical professional.

Did you know?

Meningococcal disease is a contagious but largely preventable bacterial infection that most often leads to meningitis, an inflammation of the membranes surrounding the brain and spinal cord, or a condition called meningococcal septicemia, which is an infection of the blood.

Meningococcal disease is caused by bacteria called Neisseria meningitidis that are spread person-to-person through the air (usually by sneezing or coughing), through direct contact with an infected person, such as oral contact with shared items like cigarettes or drinking glasses, or through intimate contact, such as kissing. This disease is not as contagious as things like the common cold or the flu, and it is not spread by casual contact or by simply breathing the air where a person with meningitis has been.

Meningococcal disease is a serious illness that can lead to death within a few hours of onset; one out of ten cases is fatal, and in one out of seven survivors it can lead to severe and permanent disabilities, such as brain damage, hearing loss, seizures, or limb amputation.

What are the symptoms of meningococcal disease?

High fever, headache, and stiff neck are common symptoms of meningitis in anyone over the age of 2 years. A rash may also develop over parts of the body, or the entire body. Other symptoms include nausea, vomiting, discomfort looking into bright lights, confusion, and sleepiness. These symptoms can develop over several hours, or they may take 1 to 2 days. As the disease progresses, seizures may develop. If you notice these symptoms – in yourself, friends, or others – you should contact your college health service or local hospital immediately.

Who is at risk for meningococcal disease?

Anyone can get meningococcal meningitis, but scientific evidence suggests that college freshmen living in campus housing are at moderately increased risk to get this disease when compared to the general college population. The reasons for this increased risk are still not known for certain, but factors may include such things as crowded living situations, bar patronage, active or passive smoking, irregular sleep patterns, and sharing personal items.

Other risk groups include infants and young children, household contacts to a person with meningococcal disease, refugees from parts of the world with high rates of meningococcal disease, laboratory workers who work with this bacteria, and military recruits.

Are there vaccines against meningococcal disease?

- Yes, there are two safe and effective vaccines that protect against four strains of the bacteria that cause meningococcal disease – serogroups A, C, Y, and W135. Immunization against meningococcal disease will decrease the risk of contracting the illness from these meningococcal strains.

How can meningococcal disease be prevented?

Many cases of meningococcal disease can be prevented. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the American College Health Association recommend that all first-year students living in residence halls be vaccinated against meningococcal disease. All other college students under the age of 25 years who wish to reduce their risk for the disease may choose to be vaccinated.

Vaccination is safe and effective. It protects against four of the five most common strains (or types) of bacteria that cause meningitis. Approximately 70 to 80 percent of cases in the college age group are caused by strains that are potentially vaccine-preventable. The most commonly reported adverse reactions among adolescents and adults in clinical studies were pain at the injection site, headache, and fatigue. These respond to simple measures (ibuprofen or acetaminophen) and resolve spontaneously within a few days.

Certification

Please select one or both of the options below:

☐ I have received a copy of this notice on meningococcal disease.
